BC's VersaCold Buys Cross-Border Transportation Company

By Today's Trucking Staff, Posted: Feb 10, 2016 11:31 AM | Last Updated: Feb 10, 2016 11:31 AM

VANCOUVER, BC — Western Canadian supply chain solutions company VersaCold Logistic

Services has acquired the assets of Gary Heer Transport Ltd., a refrigerated provider of truckload cross-border transportation services.

The company's entrance into the USA cross-border transportation market segment will establish the company's newest subsidiary, VersaCold North America Transportation Solutions Limited (VNATS) – set to launch in Q1 of 2016.

"This acquisition marks an exciting time of growth and service expansion at our company," says Douglas Harrison, president & CEO of VersaCold. "By offering cross-border transportation services through VNATS, we continue to live our vision of being our customer's most trusted and reliable long-term partner by providing new and innovative solutions and services that enable them to achieve great business success," adds Harrison.

Gary Heer, president of Gary Heer Transport Ltd., said his company is "excited to combine our decades of experience and expertise to provide exceptional cross-border transportation services to customers across North America."
