Dear Customer,

Re: VersaCold is Open for Business

VersaCold's supply chain services are classified as an essential service - we remain open throughout the country, even while some areas are in a state of emergency.

Open for Business:

Our network of 27 warehouses remains open from coast-to-coast, even in areas impacted by a state of emergency. These sites continue to perform a complete range of services.

Our asset-based network of hundreds of transportation units continues to move product within Canada. Further, the US / Canada border remains open to commercial activity and our trucks are crossing the border daily, getting Canadian goods to US customers and bringing back food that keeps Canadians nourished.

Finally, our Integrated Solutions team is ready to help you move goods via any mode. As markets in Asia re-open for business, we remain a flexible partner that can help you get your products to customers around the globe.

Safety first:

From warehouses that comply with BRC safety standards to transportation networks that use the most modern equipment, our assets and processes help ensure the safety of your products and those who enjoy them. Most importantly, we have implemented new measures to ensure the safety of our people.

If you need to warehouse and/or move product, we are open and ready to service your needs. Please reach out to your Business Development representative or contact us at sales@versacold.com / 1-800-563-2653.

Best Regards,

Mike Arcamone,

President & Chief Operating Officer
